

area. The event attracted visitors from architects to planners, interior decorators, lighting designers, facility managers, contract managers, specification buyers, wholesalers, specialist retailers and representatives from the contract sector.

More international visitors

The number of visitors from around the globe were very high this year: 165,203 people from 144 different countries (+33.89% compared with 2006 and +64.01% compared with 2005). The numbers of Italian operators attending (+5.89% compared with the previous edition and +15.18% compared with 2005) confirm that the sector is in decided reprisal after the last few difficult years.

The next editions of the The International Furniture Show, the International Furnishing Accessories Exhibition and SaloneSatellite will take place from April 16th to 21st 2008. Two other biennial events will take place along: Eimu (office furniture) and Eurocucine (kitchen furniture). Euroluce will be back in 2009.

The halls devoted to classical furniture, not so crowded as the contemporary section, hosted many small sized booths, which worked as a showcase for many specialized firms, proposing their premium production.

Euroluce

The whole of lighting systems, from light sources to domestic lighting, from lighting engineering to street lighting, filled the stands of the 24th Euroluce, the International Lighting Fair, which hosted 401 Italian and 162 foreign companies on a 50,323.50 m²

I Saloni 2007 offered the opportunity to visit the three large Verardo living areas of thought which include suggestions for sleeping, living, and dining.

UP|DATE is the wardrobe collection with new hyper-technological solutions and endless arrangement possibilities. The collection of beds in wood-leather-fabric, with their light or headboards, square or softly-shaped, sometimes with upholstered forms.

Finally, Kronos is the day systems which alternate finishes such as Neoteak, dark oak, gloss white lacquer, together with lack glass or millerighe glass.

Berloni: la casa prima di tutto

La casa prima di tutto: questo il nome del progetto Berloni, recentemente presentato al 46° Salone del Mobile, che ha portato l'azienda pesarese a produrre e commercializzare sistemi componibili per tutti gli ambienti della casa. Avviato già negli anni '90, comprende oggi un'ampia gamma di armadi, letti, camerette, soggiorni, divani e complementi d'arredo: tutti presentati al Salone su uno spazio espositivo di 600 m², strutturato in cinque aree di prodotto.

Le novità più rilevanti riguardano la zona giorno. Il PROGRAMMA SPACE prevede una nuova gamma di colori laccati per tutti i gusti, con l'elegante motivo floreale, panche rialzate porta dvd, i contenitori porta tv e la guida blumotion sui cassetti.

La nuova linea di Madie è ancora più comoda grazie all'introduzione della maniglia a barra e del nuovo meccanismo push-pull anche su ribalte alto/basso.

Cinque nomi evocano il design e il comfort dei divani e dei puff Berloni: UP, FLY (disegnati da Marco Fumagalli), SOAP, STILL (disegnati da Studio V7), LONG BEACH (design Luciano Grugni).

Berloni: your home above all

Your home above all: this is the name of the Berloni project, which was on display at the 46th Salone del Mobile, and which has been leading this firm to produce and sell complete modular interior design solutions for both living and sleeping areas in homes. The projects started in the '90s and now it comprises a broad range of wardrobes, beds, children's bedrooms, living rooms, armchairs, sofas and decorative objects: all this was showcased at the last Salone del Mobile on 600 m² of exhibition space divided into 5 product areas.

The most important product novelties are in the day area. The SPACE PROGRAMM features a new range of lacquered colours for all tastes, with a smart floral pattern and raised dvd benches of various lengths, tv containers and draws featuring blumotion slides.

The new line of Cabinets is even more convenient with the new bar handle and push-pull mechanism for swing-up and swing-down doors too.

Five names evoke all the design and comfort of Berloni's sofas: UP, FLY (designed by Marco Fumagalli), SOAP, STILL (designed by Studio V7), LONG BEACH (design Luciano Grugni).
